Announcement on Change of Agency In Jordan

Worldwide
New Services

Lunar New Year this year is a very difficult one, particularly for China. The outbreak from the 2019 novel coronavirus (provisionally named 2019-nCoV) is intensifying. Confirmed cases and the number of death cases in China are still increasing. The virus has spread to over 25 countries and the numbers continue to ascent. Wuhan, the epicentre of the outbreak was lockdowned by The Chinese Government, who also extended the Lunar New Year holiday closure period to control the spread of the virus. The World Health Organisation (WHO) declared this outbreak as a global health emergency, voicing concerns that the virus could spread undetected in a country with a weak health system.

This epidemic is causing supply chains to be severely impacted due to the factories shutdown. There will also be problems with shortage of manpower with many placed under quarantine orders or Leave of Absence, even after the businesses resume work. With China being one of the major export countries, all these will have significant impact on the global economy. While the Chinese ports remain open for business with the exception of Wuhan, the shortage of manpower is causing a slowdown in the loading/unloading of goods. In addition, many countries are refusing ships that have called at Chinese ports to enter their own until the crew have been checked and declared virus-free. Carriers have announced that they are reducing the number of vessels on routes connecting China and Hong Kong with the rest of the world. All these factors, and the shipment backlogs from the Lunar New Year will push up the ocean freight rates and result in delays in shipments all around the world.

We hope that China will overcome the virus quickly and we wish them all the very best in this tremendous effort.
